DECEMBER 2012

CHARTERED 1956 - 56 YEARS OF SERVICE TO COUNTRY

EDITOR: JIM CULLISON

President's Perspective

by John Ady

Season's Greetings

Hello, everyone, and the best to you and your family from Sharon and me as we enjoy this great holiday season living in the greatest country in the world!

Well, the elections across America are now over, and it's time that all these complex state, local and national issues start getting serious attention.

Budget Dilemma

Of special interest is this issue commonly called sequestration. Simply put, if our federal budget woes do not get resolved by year-end, then the effects on our military budget will be quite severe and will affect all active, reserve and retired military personnel and their families. Collectively, we need to keep the pressure on our Congressional delegations in every way possible. I am guardedly optimistic.

In case you missed the November luncheon, we had another outstanding meeting, which featured both our annual ESGR

Awards and our chapter Meritorious Service Awards, given to a group of outstanding people who have served this chapter well over the past year. Without these dedicated volunteers we could not ever achieve the great things we do year in and year out.

5 Stars

For example, we just received our eighth consecutive Five Star Excellence Award from MOAA, which I had the privilege of accepting at our national meeting in Alexandria, Virginia, a few weeks ago. In fact I received that award while Hurricane Sandy was causing torrential rains and winds in the Washington, D.C., area.

How We Do It

I was asked by a number of people in attendance as to how we keep winning these awards each year. Simply, it is because of the small cadre of volunteers who make this chapter function at such a high level, and our 2012 MSA recipients are a very important part of this group.

Turning to the December 15 annual party, we have great plans in place and hope that you are able to come.

Auxiliary Recognition

Of special note, all current Auxiliary members are being extended an invitation to join us at the party and receive a complimentary lunch from the chapter in recognition of their many years of loyal support to their spouses who wore the uniform and also to celebrate that they now have full MOAA voting rights. The proposal was voted on by the national membership of regular and life members and was passed by a very large majority.

Sign Up Now

Congratulations, ladies, and just sign up in the normal manner and indicate on the sign-up form that you are an Auxiliary member.

In closing, we hope to see you at the December luncheon, and if not, hopefully early next year.

A 5-Star Day for the Chapter

The MOAA 5 Star Chapter of Excellence Banner was affixed to the Arizona Chapter flag at the November luncheon. Doing the honors at left were chapter officers Jim Draper, Rob Welch, John Ady and Frank Hoak. The award, the eighth consecutive won by the Chapter, was presented to John at the MOAA annual meeting in Arlington, Virginia, in October. Five stars is the top chapter award given by MOAA.

Help the Arizona Chapter and the Marine Corps Reserve put a smile on the face of a less fortunate child this holiday season.

We will be collecting new, unwrapped toys for delivery to the USMC Reserve Center's Toys For Tots program at Christmas. All members are encouraged to bring at least one toy for donation to this worthy program. Usually, the 9-12 year-old age group is the most difficult to accommodate. You can bring your donations to the December luncheon. No stuffed animals please.

Chapter Members to Participate in Pearl Harbor Remembrance Event

The Arizona Chapter will be represented at the Pearl Harbor Remembrance Ceremony on December 7 at Wesley Bolin Plaza, on 17th Avenue across from the State Capitol in Phoenix. CAPT Frank Hoak, who was a young boy living with his family on Oahu at the time of the attack, and COL Rob Welch will lay a wreath as part of a commemorative ceremony during this free event. The program starts at 10:55 a.m., marking the hour and minute (Arizona time) that the attack on Pearl Harbor began. The event will include a groundbreaking ceremony for a World War II Memorial to be constructed at the Plaza.

Jim Rides Out a 'Perfect Storm'

CDR Jim Draper didn't know he was in for a wild ride when he received his first assignment as a new Ensign out of Navy OCS in 1958.

First of all, the ship he was assigned to was not what usually comes to mind — not an aircraft carrier, cruiser or destroyer and such. It was an oceangoing tug, or as his OIC described it to him, a "ghost ship."

The ship, named Tequesta, performed a secretive mission off the coast of California, keeping tabs on Russian submarines that ventured into the area.

His wild ride began one day when he had watch on the bridge and learned of a heavy storm brewing.

Jim Draper recounts a stormy night.

Jim's "ghost ship"

He got permission to try to get ahead of the storm, but it caught up with the ship. Soon the craft was fighting 30-foot swells that steadily grew to 40, then 50, then 60-65 feet.

By then, Jim had turned the ship around to head into the storm and get behind it, and he told the crew to brace for a rough ride.

And a rough ride it was. "We rode the waves up and down all night," Jim said. The Tequesta's speed was set at 13 knots into the waves, but by dawn when the storm had subsided and the crew marked their position, "We hadn't moved," he said. The power of the storm and waves had neutralized their speed and held them in place.

The end of the storm did not end their problems. The ship developed a shimmy as it headed to port. Once in port it was discovered that the right stabilizer, a 2-inch thick steel plate attached to the hull, had as Jim described it, "peeled back like a can of sardines."

But despite the difficulties, Jim and the crew of the Tequesta had survived "the perfect storm" and had an incredible story to tell.

Personal Affairs Resources from MOAA

While MOAA National's principal efforts relate to legislative activities, they also have a very extensive Personal Affairs program.

Each month, I try to inform you as to some of these subjects in addition to subjects of local interest. However, there is no way that I can cover all of the subjects, especially those which might be of interest to only a few of our members. Therefore, I am referring you to available MOAA publications which might be of interest to you. They are listed below.

To access these publications, simply sign in at www.moaa.org/ and go to Publications. You will find a list of all the publications shown below with a brief description of each. With your membership number and a password, you can download the publications which you are interested in. You can also call MOAA at 1-800-234-6622, give them your membership number and they will mail the publications to you.

Legislative Update

by Gary Fredricks, Legislative Chair

Looking Out for Us

On November 15 MOAA was recognized by The Hill newspaper, which has the highest circulation on Capitol Hill, as being one of the nation's top 50 advocacy groups. This was the sixth year in a row that MOAA has been so honored and the fourth year in a row that we have been the only military or veteran group so recognized.

This could not have happened without our MOAA staff in Washington, D.C., having a solid understanding of the Washington legislative landscape and an astute and adaptable plan for dealing with it effectively. It also could not have happened without the grassroots support that we in our MOAA chapters provide. MOAA recently reported that in just over two weeks from the time MOAA National had requested support on issues associated with the FY2013 Defense Authorization Bill MOAA members had sent more than 90,000 messages to the Hill through MOAA's website. I'm sure that the preponderance of those e-mails came from chapter members, and we thank you for that.

The Rest of the Story

So, that's the good news, now what is the rest of the story? A recent article in The Arizona Republic from an Associated Press contributor did a very good job of describing the situation. It noted that with the election over a new campaign is being waged as lobbyists, advocacy groups and trade groups fight to shape to their advantage the government's response to the looming fiscal cliff. It further suggested that instead of digging for more tax dollars, the lobbying effort is focused on protecting what they already have. The effort is mainly trying to control the damage as Congress and the White House look to raise taxes and cut spending in an attempt to get a handle on the government's debt. More specifically most of us understand that the deficit needs to be significantly reduced, but no one wants their taxes raised and neither do they want spending cuts on programs that directly affect them.

Guarding Against Disproportionate Hits

This is exactly the scenario that MOAA projected months ago and the one that our strategy is currently focused on. Yes, we still want to correct the significant inequities that still exist for our military, our veterans, their families and their survivors. We will continue to advocate for them, but a significant effort has to be directed toward "protecting what we have achieved" or more correctly in making sure that we do not take disproportionate hits. If anyone still thinks that as the nation eventually faces the deficit issue squarely we will escape without impact over the coming months and years, well then you are certainly more of an optimist than I am. It's vitally important that we all stand together and continue to provide our timely grassroots support to MOAA national on the legislative issues that affect us as they surface in our nation's Capitol.

Critical Issues Yet to be Addressed

Without belaboring the point, let me tick off yet again the significant events on the legislative horizon:

- The FY2013 Defense Authorization Bill (potentially significant pharmacy increases)
- Mandated end to temporary reductions in Social Security tax
- Mandated end to the Bush era tax cuts (1/2 of the fiscal cliff)
- Mandated sequestration budget cuts with half going to defense (other 1/2 of the fiscal cliff)
- Mandated cuts of around 27% to Medicare/TRICARE payments to doctors
- The national debt reaching the legal threshold once again
- Completion of the FY2013 Appropriations Bills
- Beginning of the FY 2014 budget process

So with that, please have a happy holiday season, but also stay tuned for requests for legislative help from MOAA.
